

MANDATE
TRADE UNION

INDUSTRIAL OFFICER ORGANISER

Mandate Trade Union has vacancies for three newly created Industrial Officer-Organiser roles. One is located in the south of Ireland and two based in Dublin. The Industrial Officer-Organiser will work to and with the Divisional Organiser within the division to which they are appointed. There is also a requirement to work on national projects under the direction of the relevant National Coordinator as the need arises.

The role and responsibilities require proficiency in the following areas: Effective organising of both current and prospective members; Recruitment of workers into the union; Individual and collective grievance handling, collective bargaining, campaigning on workplace and social issues.

The successful candidate must demonstrate a proven track record in the Trade Union movement in addition to a strong sense of social justice.

A full clean driving licence is also essential.
